The History of King’s College

University education in Canada began with King’s. Founded in 1789 in Windsor, Nova Scotia, by Bishop Charles Inglis, King’s was the first university in English Canada to accept and graduate students, and to receive a royal charter. King’s is the oldest English-speaking Commonwealth university outside the United Kingdom and received its royal charter from George III in 1802.

A Special Relationship with Dalhousie University

In 1920, a fire burned the main building to the ground at King’s in Windsor. A grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York allowed King’s to rebuild, not in Windsor, but in Halifax, where it entered into an association with Dalhousie University, the largest university in the Maritimes. Since then, King’s students have been able to take courses at both King’s and Dalhousie, giving them access to more academic program choices than at any other comparable university in Atlantic Canada.

Why Encaenia?

A ceremony rooted in the traditions of Oxford University, Encaenia comes from the Greek word meaning “beginning” or “commencement”. The term has been used since the founding of King’s in 1789. The King’s graduation ceremony is now a blend of traditional and new elements. The use of Latin has given way to English, apart from the conferring of Journalism, Fine Arts and Honorary degrees. The place of King’s on unceded Mi’kmaw land is acknowledged and Indigenous students are invited to wear Indigenous Stoles and receive a medicine pouch with their parchment. African Nova Scotian and Black students are invited to wear a Kente Sash.

The President of Dalhousie University confers arts, music, and science degrees, while degrees in journalism and honorary degrees are conferred by the Chancellor of the University of King's College. The Presidents of Dalhousie and King's confer together the joint degrees of Contemporary Studies, Early Modern Studies, History of Science and Technology as well as the graduate degrees in Journalism and Fine Arts.

Academic Regalia

The Chancellor wears a gown made from black silk that is of the pattern and trimmed with the lace and ornaments that would be customary for a chancellor's gown at a British university. A black velvet trencher cap with a gold tassel and gold lace edging is worn with this gown.

The President and Vice-Chancellor wears his or her own academic regalia over which is placed the university chain of office, in the form of a medallion, suspended from a sterling silver chain, with the arms of the university worked in sterling silver base plate.

Doctors (honoris causa) wear an Oxford pattern doctoral gown made from scarlet cloth and faced, down each side in front and on the sleeves, with silk of the colour distinctive to the degree. A black velvet Oxford pattern doctoral bonnet is worn with this gown. Other graduates wear the gown and cap prescribed by the University of Oxford for corresponding degrees.

The hoods for the doctoral degrees are made in the Oxford full shape. The hoods for all other degrees are made in the Oxford simple shape.

The number four encourages balance in all aspects and brings us closer to Mother Earth.

King's Coat of Arms

The old crest was designed by King's students in 1870 and combined the Royal Arms with those of Oxford University, Nova Scotia, and the Diocese of Nova Scotia. In 1959, the King's board of governors was alerted to the fact that the crest had never been officially sanctioned by the College of Arms or any other recognized heraldic authority.

In 1964, the College of Arms in London granted the university a new coat of arms. The crown to the left of the Paschal Lamb represents Oxford University, on which King's is modelled. The Paschal Lamb represents the Fredericton Diocese. The St. Andrew's Cross (with the pastoral staff and the key) symbolizes Nova Scotia in the Diocese of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. The four green oak trees represent Prince Edward Island.

Mace

The Reverend Canon West of the Cathedral Church of St John the Divine, New York, designed the Mace of Convocation and commissioned its execution in silver plate by New York craftsman Christopher Den Blaker. It was presented to the University of King's College at Encaenia in 1984. The wooden shaft is made of solid oak and the crown at the top represents the Canadian monarch. The base that supports the crown bears the shields of the original Diocese of Nova Scotia, the Royal Arms, the arms of the University of Oxford, and the arms of Nova Scotia.

Vind

Vind. is the Latin abbreviation for Windsor. Although it refers to Windsor, it is still used to indicate a graduate of the University of King's College (in Windsor or Halifax) in the same way that Oxon. refers to a graduate of Oxford. It distinguishes our university from other King's Colleges in the world.

It comes from Universitatis Collegii Regalis Vindsoriensis, in Provincia Novae Scotiae, which is used on the old University of King's College coat of arms and in The Statutes, Rules and Ordinances, of the University of King's College at Windsor, in the Province of Nova Scotia, 1803.
